

Theory of Change

If we nurture and facilitate trusting relationships, shared learning and system leadership,
We expect that leaders will be more informed, engaged and connected, and that capacity and mission achievement will be amplified in organizations and across the family service system
So that together we can build healthy and resilient families.

